BASIC NAVIGATION

We know how important actionable data can be in helping you to stay on top of your company's travel spend. That's why we've made our graphs and charts interactive:

DROP-DOWN LISTS

Many dashboards feature drop-down lists in the top left corner that can be used to toggle between number of bookings and amount of spend, or between a chart form of the data to a table set, to help you see the data sets in different ways.

EXPORT CAPABILITIES

The gray bar above certain graphs gives you the option to export data to files such as CSV, EXC, PDF, etc. The clock icon lets you schedule an email of a certain report to be distributed on a recurring basis.

EXPAND

Use the arrows in the gray bar to expand a report to full-screen view.

HEADINGS AND SUBHEADINGS

Click any of these labels to bring you to your area of interest. You will also notice clickable breadcrumbs underneath the headings and subheadings on all of the pages that will show you exactly what page you're on and help you go back to previous pages you visited.

HOVERING

Hover over any point on a graph to see an exact measurement of a given metric.

INTERNAL BENCHMARKING

Some stacked bar charts allow you to see how individual Business Units in your company compare to one another across Air, Hotel and Car Rental metrics.

LASSO

Click and drag data points within any graph to affect all other data on that page, helping you to see a certain range of dates more clearly.

PROMPTS

Anchored below the headings and subheadings are prompts that can be used to filter the data on the page you're currently on to your desired attributes. Prompts will expand/collapse from the left margin of each page and will include options to filter data by Business Unit(s), geographical region, or specific timeframe.

- The “TMC Air Spend by Booking Method Details” link underneath the “TMC Air Spend Over Time by Booking Method” chart will bring you to a dashboard that tells you exactly how much you have spent on offline booking fees for domestic flights, intra-regional flights, international flights, and overall.

WHY AM I SEEING A NEGATIVE NUMBER FOR MY “ACTUAL SAVINGS?”

From time to time, you may see a negative value for your “Actual Savings.” This could be for a number of reasons:

AIR PREFERRED BOOKINGS

Air data is shown at the travel lane dimension (domestic, international and intra-regional), so variations due to price differences in that are minimized. However, there are a few other reasons why your company’s Preferred average price could be higher, such as if you have high usage by Preferred Suppliers on more expensive routes. For example, you could have a 90% adoption rate on booking Preferred flights from LGA–SEA where the average overall cost is $500, while at the same time having a high use of Non-Preferred on the LAX–PHX route, where the average overall cost is $120. Your company’s advance purchase times may play a part in this as well (i.e., Non-Preferred tickets were purchased, on average, three weeks in advance, while purchases on Preferred Suppliers had an average of three days in advance). Lastly, your company may have been flying a lot with low-cost carriers who tend to not have contracts (Southwest, Allegiant, etc.).

AIR BOOKING METHOD (ONLINE/OFFLINE)

There may be times when your company’s offline booking was actually cheaper than if it was made online. When booking offline, agents may look for cheaper options by using multiple Airlines and splitting the tickets. Agents booking online rarely do split tickets.

ADVANCE AIR PURCHASE

Even if the ticket was booked in advance but you're flying during peak travel times, the cost will always trend higher. Additionally, the actual route may be driving this lower price. If your employees are booking a lot of their less expensive routes less than 14 days prior, but purchasing higher priced routes further out, then the <14 days bucket will have a lower price.

Savings

The graph is also overlaid with markers that represent the number of Preferred and Non-Preferred room nights for those same Market Tiers. Hover over the chart to see exactly how much was spent by each Market Tier.

WHY AM I SEEING A NEGATIVE NUMBER FOR MY “ACTUAL SAVINGS?”

From time to time, you may see a negative value for your “Actual Savings.” This could be for a number of reasons:

HIGHER PREFERRED RATES

Sometimes your Preferred rate is just higher. PREMIER INSIGHTS can help you see if you are getting better rates at Non-Preferred Suppliers and in turn, help you to realize which Non-Preferred Suppliers you should look into making contracted properties.

LOCATION

If you have a lot of Preferred spend in New York City and a lot of Non-Preferred spend in Oklahoma City, your Non-Preferred rate is going to be lower.
